Compliance Specialist

Alex Newill is a Compliance Specialist at Holtzman Vogel, where she works with the firm's attorneys to support nonprofit organizations, advocacy groups, and political organizations on regulatory compliance matters. She assists the legal team with the preparation of nonprofit formation documents, state lobbying registrations and disclosure reports, corporate compliance filings, and multi-jurisdictional regulatory submissions.

A strong communicator with experience collaborating with legal counsel and regulatory agencies, Alex serves as an extension of the client team and helps organizations establish and maintain nonprofit entities, stay on top of ongoing compliance obligations, and keep pace with evolving state and federal reporting requirements. She also supports clients with registered agent services, virtual office compliance, and other corporate maintenance matters.

Prior to joining Holtzman Vogel, Alex spent several years as a legal assistant supporting complex civil litigation, where she developed extensive experience in legal research, court procedures, document preparation, and client relations. Her background in litigation and legal operations provides a strong foundation for her work assisting clients navigate complex regulatory requirements.
