Brandon J. Smith*Partner

Brandon Smith is a partner at Holtzman Vogel, based in Tennessee, where he focuses on government investigations, white collar matters, and specialty litigation. A seasoned government leader and legal strategist, Brandon has played a central role in shaping conservative policy and litigation at the highest levels of state government.

Before joining the firm, Brandon served as Chief of Staff and Assistant Solicitor General in the Tennessee Attorney General's Office. In that role, he led multi-state litigation, high-profile constitutional challenges, and efforts to counter federal overreach and ESG-related corporate activism. He worked closely with nearly every Republican Attorney General's Office in the country, coordinating litigation, strategy, and multi-state policy efforts.

Earlier in his career, Brandon served as Executive Director of Legislative and Regulatory Affairs for Kentucky Governor Matt Bevin and as Policy Director to Kansas Governor Sam Brownback, where he helped drive key legislative and budget initiatives. He also held roles as Deputy Director of the Federalist Society and as an adjunct professor at American University.

Brandon's career has been defined by a commitment to defending federalism, advancing conservative governance, and shaping legal and policy fights that matter.
